

We claim:

1. A method for the treatment of patient medical conditions comprising the steps of:

diagnosing the specific medical condition to be treated by a physician;

providing by said physician to the patient a medical pack having a predetermined amount of medical supplies and medication wherein said predetermined amount is sufficient to treat said medical condition for a predetermined time period;

treating said medical condition by said patient for said predetermined time period; and returning said medical pack to said physician by said patient after said time period.

2. The method of Claim 1 wherein said medical packs contain written or photographic instructions for said patient on how to treat said ailment at home.
3. The method of Claim 1 wherein said medical packs contain a sheet for additional instructions from said physician to said patient.
4. The method of Claim 1 wherein said medical pack contains a log sheet for the patient to record said medical supply and said medication use and date of use.
5. The method of Claim 1 wherein said medical pack is evaluated by the doctor and patient.
6. A method of producing specialized medical kits comprising the steps of:

identifying a plurality of medical conditions;

specifying a course of home patient treatment having a predetermined time period for each of said medical conditions;

assembling and packaging a plurality of medical packs each having a predetermined amount of medical supplies and medications for treating said medical conditions for said predetermined time periods.
7. The method of claim 6 wherein a product code is applied to said packaging of said medical packs.
8. The method of claim 6 wherein at least one insurance or billing code is added to said packaging of said medical packs.
9. The method of claim 6 wherein said medical packs integrate said medical supplies and said medication from different manufacturers.

10. A method for the home treatment of a predetermined number of medical conditions comprising the steps of:

creating a medical pack for patient home use that is specific to each said medical condition; and providing each said medical pack with a predetermined amount of medical supplies and medication for treating each category and subcategory of said medical condition for a predetermined time period;

11. The method of claim 10 wherein at least some of said medical packs contain a starter kit for a physician to use in conjunction with said medical kits.
12. The method of claim 10 including a chart for relating said medical condition to the corresponding medical pack.
13. The method of claim 12 wherein said chart is used by said physician to locate the appropriate medical pack for the patient.
